Kenana Knitters

In 2005 Margaret walked into the knitter's workshop with a 3 month old baby on her back. She had come to Kenana Farm looking for work as a casual labourer and was directed to the knitter's workshop.

Margaret was trained by one of the permanent staff on how to knit and after a few weeks started to work on patterns on her own. She has been with us for the last 13 years and is a diligent worker.

She is the sole provider for her family of six (6) children as her husband refuses to work. Through her work at Kenana, Margaret has managed to put four of her children through to finish secondary school and has two who she is still educating.

Kenana has really helped us women, our children would be nothing if we did not work here. If you work hard at Kenana you will be able to help yourself and your children.
