

Emily Rotich

Kenana Knitters

In 2016 Emily was introduced to Kenana Knitters by the late Mary Ngotho. She had been helping Mary with knitting items and after a while she felt that she has reached a point where she was proficient enough to take work under her own name.

Emily is a steady knitter who works well with simple patterns. She enjoys knitting spider animals in both wool and cotton.

Emily is a mother of 8 children, her income from Kenana supplements her husband's income and they are able to comfortably provide for their family.

Thank you for taking me on as a knitter, I am so grateful for the work and opportunity to earn my own income. I like coming to the workshop and meeting other women as we work and share our stories.
