Changing lives stitch by stitch

Kenana Knitters

Ann is one of our senior citizens, she joined Kenana in 2005 and was introduced to the knitters by her friend Nancy Ekeno.

When she came to the knitters she had no experience in knitting, but she had experience in crafting traditional Turkana baskets. During her training we realized that she was a natural in handcrafting.

At the age of 65, knitting keeps Ann busy and also gives her a decent income. Her husband retired from work several years ago, and they both rely on her income. Ann is a mother of 5 and has 10 grandchildren.

Kenana is the place where the women from the village come to work and also relax from our day to day family lives. When we meet here at Kenana we laugh, we share our stories, our challenges and best of all we earn money for our families. We are strong women and providers because of Kenana Knitters. Thank you for supporting us.
