Kenana Knitters

Monica was introduced to work at the knitters in 2015, by her mother Sarah Njoki. Her sister Grace Mbugua is also a knitter.

Prior to joining the Kenana, Monica worked for 14 years at one of the local flower farms. She was adversely affected by the chemicals and suffered chronic back pain.

As a single mother of 4, she needed to continue working in order to provide for her family.

*From the time I became unable to work in the flower farms, Kenana has held me by the hand. I have received work to knit so many different items and earned a good income from my work. I have also received medical care for me and my children while here at Kenana, treatment that I could never afford. I don't suffer from back aches any more.
Thank you Kenana Knitters.*
