Kenana Knitters

Grace comes from a family of knitters, her mother Sarah Njoki and sister Monica Mumbi are both working with Kenana Knitters.

In 2005 when she came to Kenana she was looking for work that didn't involve emotional attachment. She had been a caregiver to an elderly couple. When the elderly lady passed away, the emotional distress she felt was too hard to bear, she couldn't go on with the work. Her mother advised her to try knitting, she has now been with us for the last 13 years.

Kenana has helped me in very many ways, I am most grateful for the fact that I have been able to raise and educate my children while working here. In fact, two of my three children were born while I was been working at Kenana. I have been able to educate, clothe and feed my children. I thank Kenana with all my heart for taking me on to be a knitter.
